A unique opportunity for sponsorship and exhibition

The Neuro Orthopaedic Institute provides innovative and progressive rehabilitation education and health performance models for health professionals around the world. We have teams of hand picked NOI trained instructors teaching in more than 25 countries and on all continents, delivering education to over 4000 health professionals each year.

If your business could benefit from face to face contact with key representatives in the rehabilitation industry, the sponsorship and exhibition opportunities of the NOI2010 Neurodynamics and the Neuromatrix Conference offer a powerful and cost-effective means of networking and establishing personal contacts with this diverse group of professionals.

NOI's innovative and reliable reputation in the world of rehabilitation puts us in a great position to attract speakers and researchers of exceptional reputation and quality. Because of our emphasis on knowledge creation and research in pain sciences, we have developed a dedicated, global following of members over the years - establishing a wide reach over many sectors and in all health professions.

Having actively participated in conference exhibitions worldwide for many years ourselves, we know what exhibitors and sponsors need. Sponsorship at NOI2010 aims to not only provide an opportunity for product exposure but also to open doors for social interaction with opening drinks, the conference dinner, lunches and breaks between plenary sessions.

Exhibition stands will be in the light and spacious dining and coffee zone, with ample time allocated for breaks.

NOI have no doubt about filling the 500+ spaces for this conference, since the level of interest has been high from the outset and the international presenters are novel and at the forefront of their fields. We also have some high profile presenters who we expect to attract a deal of attention, both from delegates and the media.

We want to offer a variable range of sponsorship opportunities, and we hope to attract exhibitors and sponsors who inhabit a similar place at the forefront of rehabilitation and health performance.

Conference audience

The conference, based upon the neurodynamics and neuromatrix paradigm, is the first of its kind and will attract all involved in rehabilitation including physiotherapists, osteopaths, occupational therapists, chiropractors, hand therapists, podiatrists, psychologists, counsellors, sports therapists and medical practitioners among many others. It will appeal particularly to modern manual therapists, and all those in pain and stress management and health performance.

Key reasons why delegates are attending the NOI2010 Conference:

- To hear and understand the most cutting edge researchers from around the world present their thoughts and research.
- To share information and develop contacts and networks in the rehabilitation world.
- To be a part of arguably the most dynamic and first ever international pain change conference.
- To discover and evaluate new techniques, ideologies and products.
- To take part in a range of numerous breakout sessions.

Speakers

The keynote speakers are well known internationally and include: Herta Flor (brain plasticity), Elsbeth McLachlan (peripheral nerve plasticity and immunology), Michel Coppieters (neurodynamics), Lorimer Moseley (body awareness, imaging), Mick Thacker (immune system pain) and David Butler (education).

Invited speakers include Sean Gibbons (learning and central sensitisation), Siri Leknes (pain and pleasure neurobiology), Keith Smart (clinical reasoning and pain), Adriaan Louw (explaining pain and surgery), Hannu Luomajoki (practical assessment and central sensitisation), Max Zusman and Martina Egan-Moog (patients with big problems), Tim Beames (graded motor imagery), Harry von Piekartz (novel approaches to facial pain), plus other members of the NOI teaching faculty.
